

ONLINE DISPLAY SCREEN EQUIPMENT (DSE) TRAINING COURSE

Every employer must ensure that each user at work is provided with adequate training on the safe use of workstations to comply with the Display Screen Equipment Regulations 1992. The training provided should include advice on how to arrange their work station safely and the actions to take if the employee develops any work-related health problems. Problems that can arise if the work station is not set up correctly are neck ache, headaches, back and shoulder pain, vision problems and wrist and arm pains. OH3's e-learning course is designed to give your employees the skills and knowledge on how to use workstations correctly and safely in order to minimise the health and safety risks associated with incorrect use.

WHO IS THIS COURSE DESIGNED FOR?

This course is for any employee who works regularly with display screen equipment, workstations and laptops. This includes employees who do not regularly use display screen equipment as part of their normal work but will be required to use a workstation at some point.

ABOUT THE COURSE

OH3's online DSE Assessment takes approximately 30 - 40 minutes to complete, the module contains a total of 53 slides which is made up of display screen equipment usage information and guidance. This includes a 10 question quiz at the end of the assessment, for which there is a 80% pass mark to complete.

The module covers a wide range of learning on the subject of display screen equipment. This includes the legal framework, full explanation of various hazards associated with incorrect usage, potential detrimental health effects, common misconceptions and details of who is most at risk of DSE ill health and how to carry out assessments.

Following the course an OH3 DSE health assessment will be sent to your employees for them to fill out, with their answers reviewed by one of our Occupational Health Nurses. The company is then issued with a certificate of e-learning for each employee who completes the module and achieves a pass rate of above 80% in the quiz. Those who we identify are experiencing problems such as frequent headaches, back ache or wrist pain whilst using their computer at work can be followed up with a telephone consultation by a member of our nurse occupational health team.
